Number

"200 Or Bust" is Slogan Of Membership Hustlers Of Chamber of Commerce

Whirlwind Campaign Begins Bright and Early in the Morning, and Chamber Will Get 200 New Members

GET ON THE BANDWAGON WHILE YOU CAN

Teams Tugging at the Leash, and Will Be After You Tomorrow, Early

ARE YOU A HELPER OR A DRONE?

The three prime objects of a Chamber of Commerce are:
1.—TO PROMOTE CIVIC FITNESS.
2.—TO SECURE CREDITABLE ADVERTISING.
3.—TO INCREASE THE CITY'S INDUSTRY.

Each feature alone offers a wide field for activity in any city with the courage and assurance to put its face toward the front and MARCH ON. With the keen, live, present day competition for business throughout the United States, how can Clearfield expect to land and hold its share of the NEW BUSINESS, IF IT DOES NOT REACH OUT AFTER IT THROUGH THE MEDIUM OF ITS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE?

SHRINERS BEGIN BIG CONVENTION IN SEATTLE TODAY

Headed by a Hundred Bands and Patrols, Monster Parade Opens Ceremonies

Day Closes With Three Great Balls—Guests Welcome No. 1—Nile Temple Host to the Big Gathering.

(By United Press)
Seattle, Wash., July 13.—In a gorgeous array of barbaric splendor, with more than 100 highly trained bands and well drilled patrols participating, all garbed in uniforms of oriental design, the imperial potentates of the Shrine order today were escorted through the streets of Seattle to the Moore theatre to open the forty-first annual session of the organization.

The council was officially opened by Potentate Swallow of Nile Temple, Seattle. Addresses bidding the nobles warm welcome to the state and city were made by Governor Lester, Mayor Hiram C. Gill, Chairman J. E. Chilberg and Judge Thomas Burke, and were responded to in a fitting manner by the imperial potentate, Dr. Frederick R. Smith.

The day will close with three mammoth balls all taking place at the same time on different floors. The imperial council delegates and their wives at the Hippodrome; the members of the bands and patrols and their wives at the Armory and the rank and file of the order on the new Bell street dock. Here the upper and lower floors will be used, with room for 2,000 dancers at the same time.

HIGH OFFICIAL AND SOCIETY WOMAN ARRESTED IN SOFIA

Charged With Plotting Death of King Ferdinand of Bulgaria

(By United Press)
Sofia, July 13.—The arrest of Dr. Ghendiev, former foreign minister in Bulgaria, and Elena Anastasiew, a beautiful society woman, on a charge of conspiracy to assassinate King Ferdinand at the Sofia Casino several months ago, caused a sensation here today. They were taken in custody shortly after two Bulgarians who threw bombs were sentenced to death. It was said that one of these men is the husband of the Anastasiew woman. Authorities declare that they have reason to believe that both she and Dr. Ghendiev were leaders in the plot.

THAW COUNSEL IS HARD ON STATE'S PRINCIPAL EXPERT

Stanchfield Toys With Austin Flint, Alienist, Who Has Long Been in Case

Expert Sticks Tenaciously to Statement That Thaw is Hopelessly Insane While Prisoner Laughs and Enjoys Discomfiture of Witness

(By United Press)
New York, July 13.—Thaw's star witness "was the general verdict when Dr. Austin Flint, the state's star witness, stepped down from the stand after a stormy cross examination by Stanchfield, Thaw's chief counsel. Stanchfield fairly bombarded Flint with embarrassing questions. The alienist was puzzled time and time again, while Thaw looked on with interest, his face showing great glee. On just one point was Stanchfield stuck by Flint. The alienist stuck fast to his assertion on every examination, "that Thaw is now and always has been hopelessly and incurably insane." Thaw's counsel fired a dozen questions on that subject and always received the same affirmative answer.

Prospects of getting all the evidence before the jury today were brightened by announcement of Deputy Attorney General Cook that he would put but two more alienists on the stand. These will be Dr. Kiehl, superintendent of Mattewan, and Dr. Baker, physician at Mattewan, and one time acting head of the institution.

"Two Hundred or Bust!" That is the lively slogan for the chamber of commerce membership committee which begins its whirlwind campaign tomorrow morning for 200 additional members.

And there'll be no "busting" unless it is a record.

The goal is 200 new names on the muster roll, and it will be reached.

Are you one of the 200 possibilities?

If you are, have you and idea of remaining a "possibility" or will you put the "O. K." sign on a membership ticket and become one of the boosters in fact?

You will.

That is, you will if good red fluid runs in your veins, and you are strong for going ahead instead of standing still—you will.

And listen: If the thought has entered your head of letting tomorrow's sun set without getting on the bandwagon, permit this thought to percolate: The bandwagon is going right along, big drum, little drum and all, and the big fellows who are on board whooping things up for Clearfield will keep right on whooping. And you will stand a mighty good chance of trailing along behind where you can hear the music, but you will have no part in the melody of accomplishment.

Get aboard, man, get aboard! There is room for all the 200, and even if you play nothing louder than a fife, you'll still be a part of the "works" and will be listed with the elect whose philosophy of life is never to stand still.

It will not be the voice of a single man talking when the committee comes to see you tomorrow. It will be the voice of Clearfield, and you should heed it. It will be the voice of progress, inviting you to pitch in and with your strong right arm send home a few telling blows for the town you live in. It will be the voice of NOW calling to you to forget the past. It will be the clarion voice of the great TOMORROW bidding you join with forces of industry and advancement, of civic improvement and commercial betterment of the community.

Get aboard, man get aboard. If you don't like the people who are running the show, get aboard and run it yourself. If you feel that they are steering the wrong course, take a hand in the steering yourself and put the craft where she belongs.

But get aboard.

The members of the committee who will canvass the city tomorrow are as follows: Thomas J. Beahan and Robert Callahan; William M. Bruce and D. W. Anderson; J. P. Fletcher and Frank M. Ellis; C. L. Torrence and George M. Rosser; F. S. Gilliland and M. M. Overly; A. D. Gould and G. L. McCullough. The general committee is: W. J. Usher, chairman, A. H. Woodward and H. E. Bodine.

AD SOCIETY TO MEET
Mrs. S. T. Corpenning's circle of the Lutheran Air Society will serve a 10c lunch on Thursday beginning at three o'clock including the evening. All are invited. J13-14.

NO ACTION UNTIL WILSON RETURNS TO WHITE HOUSE

(By United Press)
Washington, July 13.—President Wilson will return to Washington the latter part of this week, Secretary Tamm stated today. He added that this was a guess, but spoke so confidently that it is believed the guess was based on definite information. The expectation was that nothing positive would be given out until after the President was back in the white house.

THOMAS A. EDISON WILL BE HEAD OF BUREAU

Civilian Advisory Board Soon to be Established in the Department

(Special to the Progress)
West Orange, July 13.—Thomas A. Edison has accepted an invitation from Secretary Daniels to head an advisory board of civilian inventors for a bureau of invention and development to be created in the navy department. His acceptance will go forward at once to Washington, where the new plans awaits word from the man "who can turn dreams into realities."

Mr. Daniel's idea of utilizing the inventive genius of Americans in and out of the military and naval service to meet condition of warfare shown in the conflict on land and sea in Europe is outlined in a letter written last Wednesday, asking Mr. Edison whether, as a patriotic service to his country, he would undertake the task of advising the proposed bureau. The plan is to have several men prominent in special lines of inventive research associated in the work.

ITALIANS HURRYING SUPPLY OF AMMUNITION FOR ARMY

(By United Press)
Rome, July 13.—King Victor Emanuel who is at the head quarters of General Cadorna today signed a decree establishing a committee with supreme power to speed up the production of ammunition. Premier Salandra and the ministers of foreign affairs, war and marine formed the committee.

ALLIES WILL NOT AGREE TO GERMAN PROPOSAL TO U. S.

Use of German Vessels Under U. S. Flag Not Looked Upon With Favor in Europe

Transfer Would Avoid Article 5 of Declaration of London, Says British Official—Might Interpose no Objection to Bona Fide Purchase.

(By United Press)
London, July 13.—That the allies will not consent to any arrangement between the United States and Germany whereby German merchant vessels may resume sailing under the American flag with the understanding that they carry no contraband of war to England, was the information given to the United Press by a high official today.

Deep interest was shown in official circles by Berlin dispatches reporting that the German foreign office had approved such a proposal, but the unanimous opinion was that both the British and French foreign offices would state flatly to Washington that such a proposal would not be entertained. They pointed out that such a transfer would be void under Article 5 of the Declaration of London. This provides against the transfer of any vessel to a neutral flag.

England might consent to a bona fide purchase of the vessels, provided the vessels be allowed to carry anything that the United States is willing to permit them to carry, but England would not consent to a purchase on any other terms. It is not thought here, however, that Germany would consent to any transfer of her great liners that might result in future use of them for carrying munitions to the allies.

"BABY" SAYRE BOSSES HIS DISTINGUISHED GRANDDADDY

President's Grandson Rules the Roost at the Summer Capital

(By United Press)
Windsor, Vt., July 13.—For the first time in his life "Baby" Francis Woodrow Sayre realized he had a grandfather. An hour's play with his only grandson each morning and another—or more—in the afternoon was a daily and one of the president's chief vacation delights, when he was here recently.

These daily visits were a new experience for both persons concerned. And "Baby" Sayre was the principle personage in "Harlakenden House," even overshadowing his distinguished parents.

The president also realized for the first time the responsibilities of grandfatherhood. He had seen little of either of his grandchildren, Master Sayre nor Miss McAtee. Although the heir of the Sayres was born in the White House, exigencies of infancy caused his early return to his parent's home at Williamstown, Mass.

"Baby" Sayre demonstrated that he was the real boss at the "Summer capital." He was not too demonstrative about it, but all the President's family felt the rod of his authority. He was not left alone at any time. He also became quite a pal of Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, the President's niece.

Both the president and his grandson are fresh air advocates and the perils of "Harlakenden House" was the favorite retreat of both. Almost every morning, when the weather was not disagreeable, before plunging into his mail, the president and young Master Sayre held a pow wow. Ticking of ribs and chin of the baby was barred by maternal orders, but "cozy" from the president, such as mild jouncing and bouncing was not barred.

Everybody at "Harlakenden House" said that Master Sayre is a model child, as to behavior. No wakeful night hours are black-marked against him.

Mrs. Sayre and the baby plan to remain at Cornish the entire summer and the President hopes to return again to watch his grandson grow and thrive in this bracing climate.

LAST DAY FOR '15 REGISTRATION IS TO BE JULY 22

Most Announcements Made by Register Before That Date For Fall Primaries

Washington Party Expected to Take Action Looking to Selection of the public Candidates for August Party This Week—in the Evening Register.

Thursday, July 22, will be the last day for registration. On Wednesday and Thursday of next week, July 21 and 22, announcements will be made at the polling places between the hours of 8 a. m. and 3:00 p. m. for the purpose of registering electors and securing party affiliations, and after that time the books will be closed for the primaries.

If there are any who have neglected to register, or who have not following the recommendation of the Washington Party county committee, changed their registration from Progressive to Republican for the purpose of municipal and county elections, there will be notified by the chairman of the action of the committee, and urged to make their decision before the last day in order that they may not be deprived of a vote at the coming primaries.

Up to this time the committee of the Washington party named at a meeting of the county committee last month to select from the field of Republican candidates a ticket which will be recommended to the Progressive voters for their support, has not acted, but will probably meet this week to carry out the instructions of the county committee.

The following calendar of political dates between now and the November primaries may prove of value:

July 21 and 22—Wednesday and Thursday—Registry sessions at all polling places between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 3 p. m. for the purpose of registering electors and recording party affiliations.

July 27—(on or before) County commissioners shall issue primary election proclamation.

August 4.—Last day for candidates to file petitions with secretary of the commonwealth.

August 24—Secretary of the commonwealth to certify to the county commissioners candidates for the various offices.

August 31.—Last day for candidates to file petitions in office of county commissioners.

Sept. 1 and 2—Wednesday and Thursday—Registry sessions at all the polling places between 10 o'clock a. m. and 3 p. m. for the purpose of registering voters for the general election.

September 2, Friday—Registry sessions to return to county commissioners original and copies of registration.

September 24—Tuesday, Primary election day.

November 2—Tuesday, General election day.

THAW CASE EXPECTED TO GO TO THE JURY TOMORROW
Recommendation That Prisoner Be Released Confidentially Reported

(By United Press)
New York, July 13.—Henry K. Thaw entered on what he and his attorneys considered the last day of his nine year fight for freedom. By night they expect the matter of Thaw's sanity would be in the hands of the jury from which they expect nothing but a recommendation that the slayer of White be liberated as a sane man. The actual liberation of Thaw can only recommend what action should be taken. Thaw was slated. He laughingly said that he has enjoyed most of the night in going over maps and guide books in anticipation of his motor trip to California when he was released.

CHIEF OF FEDERAL BUREAU OF MINES DIES IN BED

Dr. Holmes, Originator of "Safety First" Movement Passes Away

(By United Press)
Washington, July 13.—The death of Dr. Joseph A. Holmes, chief of the Federal Bureau of Mines, was announced here today in a telegram from the Colorado capital. Dr. Holmes was one of the best known mining experts in the world. He was especially famous as originator of the "Safety First" movement. He was a victim of tuberculosis.

BRITAINS LAUNCH MOVEMENT TO BUILD 10,000 AEROPLANES

"Win War From the Air" Slogan of Backers of Daring Idea

(By United Press)
London, July 13.—British aeronautical men today launched a movement for the organization of a ministry of aviation to build ten thousand aeroplanes. L. Bin Deabold, lecturer on aeronauts at the Royal Military academy, H. G. Wells, the novelist, and a score of experts are backing the movement. "Win this war from the air," is their slogan. The plan is to send airships over Germany and wreck and batter down the works from which Germany is sending her ships and making supplies and wreck the ammunition works. They declare that a few aeroplanes sent over the works each with five bombs, could paralyze Germany by wrecking the plants. "Then thousand aeroplanes could hamstring Germany in a very short time."

REPRESENTATIVE BUTLER TO SEND YOUNG JOHN D. TO JAIL

Offers to Introduce Bill Compelling Him to Answer Questions

(By United Press)
Chicago, July 13.—Representative Frank Buchanan of Illinois today declared that he will gladly introduce a resolution at the next session of congress to compel John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to answer question of Senator Walsh or send him to jail for contempt. He denounced the young oil king and the sending of John Lawton to life imprisonment. "They have violated many statutes," he said. "Other violators are in the penitentiary. Why should we let the money lords go free and do as they please? We need more men like Welch. I am most certainly in favor of bringing John D. Rockefeller, Jr., before the bar of congress, and I will try to force him to answer Walsh's question or send him to jail for contempt."

FRENCH FLIERS BOMBARD GERMAN SUPPLY BASES

Start Fires Which are Believed to Have Destroyed Much Property

(By United Press)
Paris, July 13.—Thirty-four French aeroplanes raided a German strategic position today it was officially announced, and started several fires which are believed to have destroyed large quantities of supplies. The air raid was accomplished without loss of life or air craft in spite of violent bombardment by German anti-aircraft men. 111 bombs were dropped on German supply depots which set them on fire.

Why I Should Become A Member of The Chamber of Commerce

The importance and value of these organizations is best demonstrated by the fact that trade bodies do exist and are being maintained in every live aggressive town in the United States.

To be without an organized body of business men and property owners in a town—

MEANS A HANDICAP FOR THAT TOWN.

It can not be denied that such an organization can do much toward improving business conditions, toward bringing industries to its city, toward beautifying and improving its streets and public parks, and through many other avenues of usefulness.

These things the Chamber of Commerce of Clearfield has done and is doing. New industries have brought to Clearfield merchants not only dollars, but through the activities of the Chamber of Commerce may civic improvements have developed.

Individual members of this body have contributed thousands of dollars to various movements for the improvement of Clearfield and it is only fair that every man should contribute his share if the work is to be continued. You are not asked for a donation—you are asked to identify yourself as a business man or property owner with this body. Surely you owe this to your neighbors who have contributed so generously. You owe it to yourself, and you owe it to the town.

We ask you to join hands with us in this work. A member of the Committee will call on you Wednesday, July 14th, for the purpose of increasing our membership. Join now and become a member of the Clearfield Chamber of Commerce. Be identified with its purposes and boost the town! Help to improve it in a business way—help to beautify it, and to advertise it far and wide. All these things you can help to do by becoming a member of this body.

Many important propositions are under consideration and it is these propositions which have made this campaign necessary. We need new blood. We need more members.

When the Committee calls on you Wednesday, July 14th, we would like you to realize and feel that they are devoting time, money and labor for your benefit, for the benefit of your neighbor, and for the upbuilding of Clearfield.

Join the Chamber of Commerce. Become a Member Now.

Tomorrow is "live wire" day, "booster" day, or whatever kind of a day you would rather call one devoted to developing the chamber of commerce into a sixty-horsepower organization.

Did you ever try to cater to the whims and fancies of 2,500 people in a single day? That's what The Progress does every day. Remember that when you feel like exploding over some inconsequential error you find in the paper.

"HUMANITY AND COMMON SENSE"

"The German Government will meet Mr. Wilson on the high ground of humanity and common sense. The rest, unless we are gravely mistaken, we may safely leave in the hands of Count Bernstorff and President Wilson."—From the Fatherland's forecast of Germany's reply to the American note.

The German government met Mr. Wilson on the low ground of its own national dishonor to which Kultur has sunk it, and any common sense in Saturday's note purely is discoverable only to those few of God's elect who have been kulturized. Americans may be thankful that their country will not prostitute its heritages of honor and humanity by stooping to deal with Germany on such terms.

A NATION WITHOUT A NAME

In his "Letters of a Retired Admiral to His Son" Capt. A. P. Niblack says the United States is "very poorly equipped for its manifest destiny as a world power," and among the things lacking he mentions no organized diplomatic service, no national air and no distinctive name for Americans as a people.

The first of these is serious enough, and is likely to be permanent although considerable improvement is possible. A trained diplomatic service can not readily be developed under a democratic government and with "rotation in office" accepted as a cardinal principle. The diplomats of Europe learn their business through half a life time of experience, but we fill our important foreign offices with new and untrained men every four years. Inefficiency of this sort is an essential part of the price we pay for the advantages of our republican institutions.

The lack of a national air is both much less serious in itself and by no means so nearly beyond a remedy. We do have a national anthem of a sort in "The Star-Spangled Banner," but as Captain Niblack pointedly observes, "the air is unsingable, the sentiment is 'highfalutin,' and the third verse contains offensive words that do not make for international conciliation." Under the circumstances we naturally make more use of "My Country 'Tis of Thee," but here is met the objection involved in the fact that we have borrowed the air from "God Save the King." Our often employed "Dixie" is a very stirring tune, but the words are farcical. And so it goes.

Much less serious also is the lack involved in the fact that "we are the only people in the world who have not a distinctive name." Of course "United-States-ers" is impossible and "Americans" is a descriptive term which the people of every other country in this hemisphere have a right to. This is an inconvenience which, after so long a time, is past remedy, but it is really a less serious matter than some of us seem inclined to believe. All over the world we are known as "Americans," while the other people with a right to the term rarely employ it except in a very general sense, being proud to be known as Brazilians, Mexicans, etc. Moreover, we are the oldest "Americans," we were the first to become known to the world, and of course we have superior rights in the term.

The fact that our country is called United States is of itself an enduring reminder that we are not originally one and that our nation was evolved from a confederation of previously separate and originally sovereign states. We hardly need to recall that Massachusetts threatened to leave the union as late as 1843-5, and that eleven southern states actually sought to leave the union as late as 1861-5, in order to reflect that with us true nationality is of comparatively recent growth. Our very dual system of government, federal and state, is an imperishable record of our origin and evolution. After the long and stress we became a nation, but the mere confederation in which we started may be seen in the form of our governmental institutions as well as in the fact that our country is called the United States and we acknowledge ourselves only as "Americans."

Today's Geographic Study of
The Great European War Zone

"Before the Austro-German advance, south of Warsaw, the powerful Russian fortress Ivangorod interposes itself, just about midway between the great manufacturing metropolises of the Poles and the North Galician frontier. This city is a stronghold of the first class, and forms the center of a defensive line guarding the southern approach to the capital city of Russian Poland. Especially, it is important, as it stands upon the junction of railways from Warsaw south, one of which runs southeast to Lublin, and the other southwest to Kielev. The invading German armies are now reported to be pressing toward Lublin, and interest in the near future may center around the redoubtable fortress at Ivangorod." This begins a war primer issued today by the National Geographic Society, dealing with the Russian Przemysl, against which the conquerors of the lost Austrian Przemysl are striving. The statement continues:

"Ivangorod is 148 miles north-west of Przemysl, and more than 60 miles from the Russian border. It is about 60 miles south-east of Warsaw. The city is situated at the confluence of the Wieprz with the Vistula, and its plan of fortification makes use of the Vistula River, which, there, has become of sufficient size as to be navigable for larger boats. Nine permanent works are built along the right bank of the Vistula, and there are three upon the left bank. The country around this town is rolling, in places sharply uneven, and offers advantageous features for defense. Ivangorod, together with Brest-Litovsk, Novo-Georgievsk, and Warsaw, forms the celebrated Polish 'quadrilateral,' the kernel of the Russian scheme for the defense of their frontier land, Russian Poland."

COMMUNICATED

Irvona, Pa., July 10, 1915.

Editor Progress: Having been in Clearfield for some time, was surprised when I came home Monday evening to find quite a discussion as to what the Progressives did and were going to do in Clearfield county, and when told that around their camp fire in Clearfield a few days ago they had decided and advised their followers to return to the Republican fold, there were several questions asked as to the treatment they could expect. Of course their case is a little different to a new convert. They are mostly taken on probation for a short time, the length of time I think depends on the kind of character they have been. We however, as good old Republicans in Irvona, have decided to waive all formality and introductory services and take the Good Book as our guide and it says if the backslider returns, their sins shall be forgiven and remembered no more against them. We would take it for granted that they have laid down their weapons of war fare and would war against us no more and be willing and ready and glad to have the honor of helping to elect the next president in 1916 who will be W. H. Taft.

And so far as their coming in the race and taking their chances of getting near the plum tree, their chance would be as good as though they had never blackballed. Should anyone intimate that their backsliding had anything to do with their being led to believe there was a nearer path to the plum tree in the Progressive than in the Republican party, we would say bear it like Our Master, who when he was unjustly persecuted only prayed the more for the sinners. You know we always have some fellows in all parties who notice a lot of little things. But come right up front and take your place where you will be welcome boy.

By order of the committee,
Two Good Old Republicans.

MICHIGAN VILLAGE GROWS

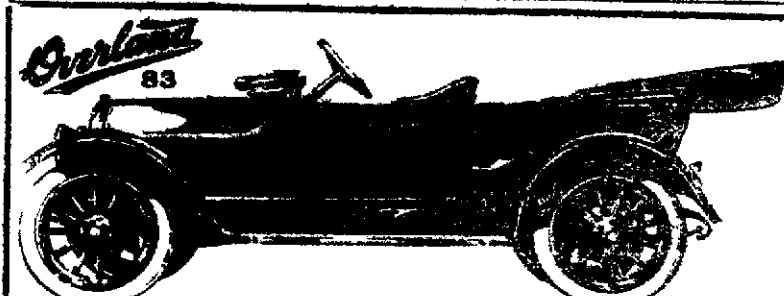

504 PER CENT IN 5 YEARS

Hamtramck Spurts from 3559 in 1910 to Over 20,000 in 1915

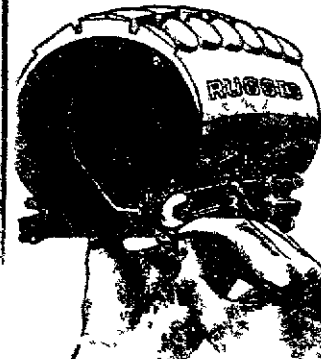

(Special to the Progress) Washington, July 13.—The census bureau has just completed a special census of the village of Hamtramck, Michigan, at the request and expense of the residents of the village, which shows Hamtramck to have enjoyed the most wonderful growth of any city or town in the United States within the past decade. The village shows an increase of population from 3559 in 1910 to 21,520 in 1915, an increase of 504 per cent. in five years. Hamtramck is a suburb of Detroit, and its remarkable growth is due in large part to the establishment there of large automobile factories and allied industries.

Mr. Beckwith wrote to Geo. H. Mayr, the maker of the remedy, and for twenty years the leading druggist of Chicago.

"I believe that Mayr's Wonderful Remedy is the greatest stomach remedy on earth. One dose would convince any one who is troubled with his stomach of its wonderful merits. It removed some of the most awful looking stuff from my stomach. I have taken other remedies, but they never helped me."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. The Broken Coin

By EMERSON HOUGH

From the Scenario by Grace Canard

A Story of Mystery and Adventure

SYNOPSIS

Kitty Gray, newspaper woman, finds in a curio shop half of a broken coin, the mutilated inscription of which arouses her curiosity and leads her, at the order of her managing editor, to go to the principality of Grotzoffen to piece out the story suggested by the inscription. She is followed and on arrival in Grotzoffen her adventures while tracing the secret of the broken coin begin.

SECOND INSTALLMENT

CHAPTER VI.

Count Frederick.

Kitty Gray turned suddenly to the man seated beside her in the motor, bending upon him a steady gaze.

"Who are you?" asked she. "Why did you follow me?"

The swathed figure suddenly straightened. "Whatever I am, do not believe you may think me, do not believe me incapable of gratitude to yourself."

"What is your name?"

"They call me Roleau, mademoiselle."

Kitty Gray turned yet more closely to him, gazed straight into his eyes.

"Then why not enlist with me? Surely we have a common cause. We have a common enemy. Would it be wrong did you and I league against him?"

"You ask me, then—"

"To be my friend, my ally."

"Surely I owe him no allegiance further," exclaimed Roleau bitterly. "He struck me like a dog."

"Yet you and I must see him again and soon."

"What! Would you trust yourself alone more in his presence? You are an American girl—you are innocent, you are ignorant. I warn you."

"None the less, if I am to go forward with the business which brought me here to Grotzoffen, surely I must know more the Count Frederick."

The man at her side hesitated no more than an instant. "Very well," said he calmly. "As for me, my life has been forfeit many a time before now. What matter? I will go with you as you say. Indeed, I fancy I know why you ask me to go—they know me at the palace—they will admit us both."

It was as Roleau had said. When finally the two drew up to the court driveway in front of the count's palace, they were admitted without question. Roleau closed the door behind him and put a finger to his lips for silence.

"They will listen," he whispered. "Be careful. This is the room where Count Frederick receives his friends."

Curiously silently Kitty sat or at times walked about the room, taking stock of the surroundings. Count Frederick entered.

"Mademoiselle! I am charmed! So you remember me?"

"You may say as much indeed," replied Kitty Gray calmly. "I saw you in the carriage this morning."

He turned now to Roleau, with no change in his countenance to indicate any recollection of the nature of their last meeting. "You may retire to the next room," said he, dismissing him with a wave of the hand.

"Do not in the least misunderstand me, Monsieur le Comte," said she lightly. "My business is very simple. I have a proposition to make to you—a business proposition."

"But I am not a business man," protested the smiling antagonist who beckoned her. He came yet a half step nearer.

"Are you so sure?" exclaimed she suddenly. "Is there no business in which also I am definitely concerned? Then why did you send a messenger to follow me in my own country, to ransack my apartments there, to violate my privacy even on the steamer?"

"My men served me but ill—if I may admit part of what you say, mademoiselle."

"That is why I am here—and in his company! Yes I know your messenger as I know you. Come, let us reason together over this Monsieur le Comte. Shall it be business or war between us?"

The sheer audacity of this speech for one moment daunted Count Frederick. The next he broke into a roar of laughter and flung himself into a chair. "Admirable!" said he.

She started away from him moving toward the door. "I came Monsieur le Comte," said she boldly. "to ask you what price for the half coin which you seek to hold. Suppose, for instance that Grotzoffen loan were executed for you finally in New York—would that influence you at all? Come now let us reason."

I am beyond reason, I care little for the world's side. I value not so much money as what money brings. It could bring me no more than what fortune has brought me at no cost, this morning this very hour."

"Roleau!" cried Kitty suddenly. "A moi! A secors!"

"You waste breath," laughed Count Frederick. He cannot come."

Kitty made one swift dart toward the door. She was too late. The relentless face of her opponent smiled at her as strong fingers thrust it back to the lock, removed it, thrust it into his pocket.

"Mademoiselle," he said calmly, "I am a business man."

"At as to business," he knew very well the nature of a certain girl's mind. "Very good. You have said it. We will say I have to go."

"No," said he. "I will say I have to go."

"No," said he. "I will say I have to go."

"No," said he. "I will say I have to go."

"No," said he. "I will say I have to go."

"No," said he. "I will say I have to go."

"No," said he. "I will say I have to go."

"No," said he. "I will say I have to go."

"No," said he. "I will say I have to go."

"No," said he. "I will say I have to go."

"No," said he. "I will say I have to go."

"No," said he. "I will say I have to go."

"No," said he. "I will say I have to go."

her neck. The cord was gone. The packet was missing.

When after a time she ceased in a useless effort to lug the heavy body of Roleau into the shelter of the car, she turned to gaze about her. She paused, her gaze arrested. Yes, a little caravan, apparently from some far off land, and journeying hither frankly enough across the neutral ground between these two little kingdoms.

The apparent leader of this little caravan was a reticent, dark-bearded man. He advanced now quietly toward the young woman.

"The lady is in distress. There has been trouble here—robbers, bandits—your man has been killed, perhaps. Yes, there are many such in this land, between the two kingdoms. There is no law here, mademoiselle. I cross as you see, with my own men armed. I am, if you please, a merchant of Grotzoffen. Sometimes I do a little merchandising between the two kingdoms."

He pointed to the coat of arms on the door of the disabled car. "The Count Frederick of Grotzoffen has been here."

"Aye, the Count Frederick! It was he who left us here."

He made a gesture now to his attendants, and as some of them lifted the limp form of Roleau, he himself assisted Kitty to mount. A few moments later and the strange procession was again on its way.

"Mademoiselle," said the leader at length, as he drew up alongside, "I must continue on into my own country. We are near the edge of it here. At the little stream which lies just beyond there is a house of a peasant—it is but a hovel and no fit place for you, that is true. But even so, that is better either for you or for your man."

They advanced now a little distance farther, until within half sight of the peasant's little hut, Radoz made signs at the hunting lodge.

Count Sachio introduced his guests with a few words in his own language. They stared politely, smiled discreetly, but made Kitty welcome.

"Now, be off with you all!" exclaimed Count Sachio. "To the woodland paths, since the morning is so fresh."

"Mademoiselle, you will have refreshments?" he asked, as, laughing gayly, the others dispersed.

"Nothing more for me than a cup of tea," said Kitty gravely. "Let me think me rude—perhaps it may be well for me to excuse myself. Is there any way in which I may get back to the cottage where I left my man?"

"Not so fast, not so fast as all that, ma chere! You have not tested out my humble place as well as I would ask. Come, what you think of it?"

Not his words so much as his manner sent swift alarm into Kitty Gray's heart. Swiftly she arose and made back as he, warmed somewhat by his wine, now advanced toward her, smiling. Her gesture angered him and he stepped forward, but more swiftly.

At once Kitty gave voice to a loud cry of terror—the appeal for help—a woman's first weapon of defense. For, even as she did so, she heard the sound of hoofs on the trail beyond the edge of the forest.

"Roleau!" She cried aloud, "A moi!"

Kitty guessed, rather than knew, that Roleau's uneasiness on her account had led him to pursue her. Such, indeed, was the case.

"Who are you, man?" demanded Count Sachio, imperiously. "I am Sachio of Grotzoffen, man—one who need not declare himself to you. Your life shall pay for this!"

"Good! Why not now, my friend?" retorted Roleau calmly. "I have seen men of many sorts before now, but none that I feared. This lady is in my care. She will ride with me, and we will ride better horses than that on which I came."

Even as he spoke he passed rapidly among the spirited mounts of the little party lately arrived. Two he selected for himself and Kitty. With the others he was busy with a few strokes of the short knife he wore. He grinned as he came out from among the horses.

"So, Monsieur Sachio of Grotzoffen," said he, "you will ride with short girthe if you follow us. In truth he had cut a piece out of the girthe of each one of the unused horses."

An instant later he and Kitty were mounted and speeding away.

CHAPTER IX.

King Michael II.

When Count Frederick and his accomplice Grahame left their two victims lying helpless in the sandy plain, they themselves made all speed possible back to the capital. In spite of his regret at violence to a woman, exultation sat on the dark features of Count Frederick.

"Now, Grahame," he exclaimed, "at last we have it."

"Excellency," rejoined the other, "you have but half the coin. I told you where the two pieces were—where each was. One you have at last and after some trouble. But the other is still in the possession of Michael the king. He may not yield it easily."

"With ease or difficulty, he shall give it up!" growled Count Frederick. "We will take it from him if need be."

And straightway to the Royal palace of Grotzoffen they fared on, fast as might be. There was no difficulty in securing admittance, for Count Frederick was well known at the palace almost as the king himself.

King Michael II looked with a certain disapproval upon Count Frederick's dusty clothes.

"I ask your majesty's pardon, but I have had no time to arrange myself in proper courtesy. My errand is urgent. But I fancy you cannot guess it?"

"Not in the least. It could not be that you wish to ask me again what you asked me the last time you came here—about the broken coin?"

"Yes it was precisely that."

"Why then?"

Your majesty has promised me some little thing in reward for a certain service which I was able to render not long ago. It was mine of me to remind of that—but suddenly there came up a need for some little trinket—some jewel—some oddity. Your majesty I wish it for a lady and my jeweler told me he could make of this broken coin—"

Feeding The Baby During The Second Year

Nothing is so dangerous to a baby's health as wrong feeding; nothing so important to his healthy development as proper feeding.

For the first nine months, breast milk is the only food a baby should have, except a little pure drinking water. If the breast milk is not sufficient, it may need to be supplemented, as directed in a previous article of this series, with properly prepared cow's milk given in a bottle.

For a baby between 9 and 12 months of age, certain foods may be carefully added to this diet, a list of which was given in the preceding article.

For a healthy baby at the beginning of its second year, the same diet may be used and as the child grows various foods may be added. He may now take undiluted cow's milk, and well-cooked cereals twice a day, in addition to the brook and dried bread.

At 15 months he may have rare beef, or well-cooked chicken. Meat for a baby should be broiled, roasted or baked, fried, and should be given to baby scraped or finely minced.

The following are staple foods for a healthy child from 15 months to 2 years old: (An ounce is 2 tablespoonsful.)

7 a. m. Milk 3 to 10 ounces, plain or sweetened, toast or dried bread.

9 a. m. Orange juice, 3 ounces.

10 a. m. Cereal, 2 tablespoonsful, cup milk.

2 p. m. Bread, 4 ounces, 1 tablespoonful, vegetable oil.

1 tablespoonful, stale bread, 3 baked apple, 1 to 2 tablespoonsful.

6 p. m. Cereal, 1 1/2 tablespoonsful, milk 4 to 8 ounces, toast or bread.

10 p. m. Milk, 3 ounces in bottle (may be omitted).

The following rules for feeding babies may be helpful to mothers.

Ten: Feed one day old baby very thin slices; slice plain, edge in a toast rack in an open dry. Leave over one party only.

Months: Of round steak, 1 of water, 1 pint. Put the steak in cold water and allow it to cook in barely simmering for three or four hours. Remove the meat and enough water to make up the original amount of liquid; strain through a wire sieve and not add to the When cold the fat is removed the solid pieces, leaving a clear jelly. Heat a small portion of it in time to feed the baby. Boil jelly covered and on ice.

Months: 1 tablespoonful. Water round or chicken steak, covered a silver spoon. When you have desired amount, change into a glass bowl on a hot, dry spoon. Add cold, add a little salt.

Or, a piece of raw round or chicken steak, the outer part having been away is scraped or shredded with a knife.

Spinach: Cook spinach in salt water until tender. Pour off water over it and drain.

Baked Apples: Apples baked in water. Slice and cover with a tablespoonful of pulp through a fine sieve.

Corned: Three tablespoonsful of corn preparation, 2-4 of a cup, with 1 quart of water for 2-4 of a hour in a double boiler. Add eggs, water to keep moist.

Outmeal: Make a pint of water boiling in the top of the double boiler; add 1-2 tablespoonsful of oil or drop in gradually 1-2 cup of corn flakes, stirring all the while. Do for three hours and strain through a wire sieve. Pour on one to the ounces of milk.

Never give a baby cakes, candy, doughnuts, pastry, fried bread, gelatin cakes, syrup, molasses, pork, a tough meat of any kind. Bananas over ripe fruits peaches, tea, cold soda water, beer, or tapers of food from the family table, especially during hot weather.

Additional directions for feeding older babies and notes for the mother and vegetables for their use given in a bulletin published by the Children's bureau of the Department of Labor, Washington, D. C. The publication, "Infant Care," is free to all who apply for it.

him "Had I met this gentleman," he nodded toward Landow, with whose identity he was well enough acquainted, "perhaps I might have needed greater argument."

"All is well that ends well, my good Sachio!" exclaimed Count Frederick. Be my guest instead of my host. Ride with me now to my own home and at another day I will return with you to your hunting lodge."

"You know this lady?" asked Sachio aside, nodding towards Kitty.

"But slightly," rejoined Count Frederick. "And you?"

"But slightly," smiled Sachio, and he told no more.

"Who is she?" asked the captain of the troop, sotto voce, of Roleau.

"I tell you all, my friends," answered that sturdy soul. "She is a highness from abroad, an excellency. Take no liberties here. She goes to the palace—she is to meet the king."

Come, your money your valuables!" exclaimed the leader of the ruffians. "You know me? I am Landow, chief of the Brotherhood. My men like work none too well, and we must eat and drink. Your money, please—or we will take it whether or not you please."

Contemptuously, Count Frederick reached into his pockets and flung upon the ground before them such valuables as he had.

The bandit now turned to repeat this process with the other two strangers, whom they could not classify as friends or foes of those whom they had now found in the motor car.

What have we here—a woman, and a beautiful one! exclaimed the bandit chief. "She wears no jewels—perhaps she has not much money for us. But still there are other ways. What say you, my fellows, shall we hold her for a ransom?"

The man Roleau here raised his hand and spoke with authority.

My friends, he said, what I have to little and it is yours, for you are my brothers and I know you must live

The rain on Sunday afternoon interfered somewhat with the attendance at the mens meeting but a splendid meeting was held. Mr. Nelson Cramer being in charge. The testimony of the men who became "Trail Hitters" a year ago was inspiring to all who heard them. Rev. Gordon Arch Williams of Altoona will address the meeting on Tuesday evening. In order to accommodate all who desire to hear this speaker the meeting will be held in the Presbyterian church.

The firm of Baird Rickenbaugh & Co., have announced that in order to give their employees the benefit of the evenings off during the heated season they will close their store every evening except Saturday at 6 o'clock from July 16 to Sept 6. This is a commendable move and it is to be hoped all the other stores will do likewise.

SERVIANS PREPARING FOR STRONG HUNGARIAN ATTACK

Smallest Army in World-War Preparing for Try at Austria's Finest

(By United Press) Nisch, Serbia, May 3: (By Mail to New York)—Completely reorganized and equipped, Serbia's little army of 300,000 men that has twice defeated the Austrians is today holding itself in readiness for an invasion of Hungary.

Despite the heavy losses of the Serbians, both in their previous conflicts with the Austrians and in the epidemic which is still sweeping the country, their army is now in perhaps better condition than ever before, thanks largely to the financial help of the Allies. The losses in the Serbian ranks have been largely filled by new troops that have been whipped into shape in the provinces of Macedonia which Serbia acquired during the recent Balkan wars.

The fighting strength is still up to 300,000 men, the number with which Serbia began the present war.

Without question, however, the most important transformation in the Serbian army is that in its transportation. Up to the present time in all of its military operations, the Serbian army has been obliged to depend almost exclusively for transportation on ox carts.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD PROVES WONDERFUL RECORD

Handles 10,000,000 Passengers Without Loss of a Single Life

(Special to the Progress) Pittsburgh, July 13.—Records just closed for the year ending June 30 show that in that period the Pennsylvania Railroad system carried approximately 180,000,000 passengers and not one was killed in a train accident.

These records cover the entire system, with its more than 26,000 miles of track, located in 13 states, including the Lines East of Pittsburgh, the Long Island Railroad, the Cumberland Valley Railroad, the New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk Railroad, the Baltimore, Chesapeake and Atlantic Railway, the Maryland, Delaware and Virginia Railway, the Lines West of Pittsburgh, the Vandalia Railroad and the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railway. The Pennsylvania system operates some 113,000 passenger trains every month.

On the Lines East of Pittsburgh and Erie, consisting of the Pennsylvania, the Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, and the West Jersey and Seashore Railroads, not a single one of more than 265,000,000 passengers carried in the past two years and a half has been killed in a train accident. The last train accident in which a passenger was killed occurred at Glen Loch, Pa., in November, 1912.

Archbishop of Cincinnati and Milwaukee Ask Pope to Use Influence

(BY UNITED PRESS) London, July 12.—The archbishops of Cincinnati and Milwaukee with another bishop from Toledo have appealed to Pope Benedict to use his influence to help keep America out of war. His holiness was quoted as recommending in his reply, "that the American prelates rely on the policy of President Wilson whose peaceful intentions are well known." The Pope also recommended loyalty to the country of their adoption on the part of German-Americans.

OAKLAND LOSES TO LUMBER CITY

Lumber City won a second game of baseball last Saturday from Oakland by a score of 12 to 9.

The battery for Lumber City was Zeiger and Young and for Oakland Humphrey.

The Oakland team attributes the loss of the game to an accident which occurred before the game started when their catcher had one of his fingers badly split and was rendered unable to play in the game.

The Discomfort of Dust

The advent of the automobile has made living in a great many cities almost intolerable.

A machine sweeps by your door and leaves in its wake a trail of dust that CHOKES and BLINDS you—that pollutes your flowers, your porch, your outdoor furniture, carpets and rugs with a coating of dirt.

YOUR HEALTH IS MENACED—YOUR PROPERTY DAMAGED!

You cannot enjoy the PLEASURES of your porch because it is not fit to sit on.

Your wife is CONSTANTLY WORKING to keep things CLEAN—the desire of every woman who takes a natural PRIDE in her home.

From the outside your house looks shabby and old. So does your neighborhood—practically the entire community.

How does this affect the average visitor or the man looking for a new location?

Isn't it natural to suppose the dust goes away and spreads the news that your town is NOT PROGRESSIVE? And the latter is unfavorably impressed and moves on to the next town where citizens have appreciated the advantages of well-kept roads?

As a community you want to grow—to see your property improve in value—your merchants flourish—your taxes reduced.

You cannot accomplish these things if your roads are NEGLECTED.

And there is LESS REASON today for neglecting your roads than ever before.

Right at this moment The Atlantic Refining Company of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, is under contract with the State to oil or resurface with asphalt hundreds of miles of State roads.

With a big fleet of auto trucks and wagon distributors, they are operating in every county in the State. This makes it possible to take care of your roads IMMEDIATELY, to make prompt deliveries of material, put it on the roads—in fact, handle the whole job in the most ECONOMIC manner for you.

One of the Atlantic road experts is now at work with the County Engineer. He will be glad to meet with you and CO-OPERATE to make your roads what they should be. He can furnish you accurate figures on the cost of any part or all of the work—he will advise you in arousing interest and devising ways and means to finance the project.

Get in touch with this man.

This means YOU!

Write today to The Atlantic Refining Company, Philadelphia or Pittsburgh, and say you want to see the road expert in your vicinity.

Don't put it off—summer is here—the work should be done AT ONCE!

CLEARFIELD PENNSYLVANIA, TUESDAY, JULY 13, 1915.

Number

"200 Or Bust" is Slogan Of Membership Hustlers Of Chamber of Commerce

Whirlwind Campaign Begins Bright and Early in the Morning, and Chamber Will Get 200 New Members

GET ON THE BANDWAGON WHILE YOU CAN

Teams Tugging at the Leash, and Will Be After You Tomorrow, Early

ARE YOU A HELPER OR A DRONE?

The three prime objects of a Chamber of Commerce are:
1.—TO PROMOTE CIVIC FITNESS.
2.—TO SECURE CREDITABLE ADVERTISING.
3.—TO INCREASE THE CITY'S INDUSTRY.

Each feature alone offers a wide field for activity in any city with the courage and assurance to put its face toward the front and MARCH ON. With the keen, live, present day competition for business throughout the United States, how can Clearfield expect to land and hold its share of the NEW BUSINESS, IF IT DOES NOT REACH OUT AFTER IT THROUGH THE MEDIUM OF ITS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE?

SHRINERS BEGIN BIG CONVENTION IN SEATTLE TODAY

Headed by a Hundred Bands and Patrols, Monster Parade Opens Ceremonies

Day Closes With Three Great Balls—Guests Welcome No. 1—Nile Temple Host to the Big Gathering.

(By United Press)
Seattle, Wash., July 13.—In a gorgeous array of barbaric splendor, with more than 100 highly trained bands and well drilled patrols participating, all garbed in uniforms of oriental design, the imperial potentates of the Shrine order today were escorted through the streets of Seattle to the Moore theatre to open the forty-first annual session of the organization.

The council was officially opened by Potentate Swallow of Nile Temple, Seattle. Addresses bidding the nobles warm welcome to the state and city were made by Governor Lister, Mayor Hiram C. Gill, Chairman J. E. Chilberg and Judge Thomas Burke, and were responded to in a fitting manner by the imperial potentate, Dr. Frederick R. Smith.

The day will close with three mammoth balls all taking place at the same time on different floors. The imperial council delegates and their wives at the Hippodrome; the members of the bands and patrols and their wives at the Armory and the rank and file of the order on the new Bell street dock. Here the upper and lower floors will be used, with room for 2,000 dancers at the same time.

HIGH OFFICIAL AND SOCIETY WOMAN ARRESTED IN SOFIA

Charged With Plotting Death of King Ferdinand of Bulgaria

(By United Press)
Sofia, July 13.—The arrest of Dr. Ghendiev, former foreign minister to Bulgaria, and Elena Anastasiow, a beautiful society woman, on a charge of conspiracy to assassinate King Ferdinand at the Sofia Casino several months ago, caused a sensation here today. They were taken in custody shortly after two Bulgarians who threw bombs were sentenced to death. It was said that one of these men is the husband of the Anastasiow woman. Authorities declare that they have reason to believe that both she and Dr. Ghendiev were leaders in the plot.

THAW COUNSEL IS HARD ON STATE'S PRINCIPAL EXPERT

Stanchfield Toys With Austin Flint, Alienist, Who Has Long Been in Case

Expert Sticks Tenaciously to Statement That Thaw is Hopelessly Insane While Prisoner Laughs and Enjoys Discomfiture of Witness

(BY UNITED PRESS)
New York, July 13.—Thaw's star witness "was the general verdict when Dr. Austin Flint, the state's star witness, stepped down from the stand after a stormy cross examination by Stanchfield, Thaw's chief counsel. Stanchfield fairly bombarded Flint with embarrassing questions. The alienist was puzzled time and time again, while Thaw looked on with interest, his face showing great glee. On just one point was Stanchfield stuck by Flint. The alienist stuck fast to his assertion on every examination, "that Thaw is now and always has been hopelessly and incurably insane." Thaw's counsel fired a dozen questions on that subject and always received the same affirmative answer.

Prospects of getting all the evidence before the jury today were brightened by announcement of Deputy Attorney General Cook that he would put but two more alienists on the stand. These will be Dr. Kieh, superintendent of Mattewan, and Dr. Baker, physician at Mattewan, and one time acting head of the institution.

"Two Hundred or Bust!" That is the lively slogan for the chamber of commerce membership committee which begins its whirlwind campaign tomorrow morning for 200 additional members.

And there'll be no "busting" unless it is a record.

The goal is 200 new names on the muster roll, and it will be reached.

Are you one of the 200 possibilities?

If you are, have you and idea of remaining a "possibility" or will you put the "O. K." sign on a membership ticket and become one of the boosters in fact?

You will.

That is, you will if good red fluid runs in your veins, and you are strong for going ahead instead of standing still—you will.

And listen: If the thought has entered your head of letting tomorrow's sun set without getting on the bandwagon, permit this thought to percolate: The bandwagon is going right along, big drum, little drum and all, and the big fellows who are on board whooping things up for Clearfield will keep right on whooping. And you will stand a mighty good chance of trailing along behind where you can hear the music, but you will have no part in the melody of accomplishment.

Get aboard, man, get aboard! There is room for all the 200, and even if you play nothing louder than a fife, you'll still be a part of the "works" and will be listed with the elect whose philosophy of life is never to stand still.

It will not be the voice of a single man talking when the committee comes to see you tomorrow. It will be the voice of Clearfield, and you should heed it. It will be the voice of progress, inviting you to pitch in and with your strong right arm send home a few telling blows for the town you live in. It will be the voice of NOW calling to you to forget the past. It will be the clarion voice of the great TOMORROW bidding you join with forces of industry and advancement, of civic improvement and commercial betterment of the community.

Get aboard, man get aboard. If you don't like the people who are running the show, get aboard and run it yourself. If you feel that they are steering the wrong course, take a hand in the steering yourself and put the craft where she belongs.

But get aboard.

The members of the committee who will canvass the city tomorrow are as follows: Thomas J. Beahan and Robert Callahan; William M. Bruce and D. W. Anderson; J. P. Fletcher and Frank M. Ellis; C. L. Torrence and George M. Rosser; F. S. Gilliland and M. M. Overly; A. D. Gould and G. L. McCullough. The general committee is: W. J. Usher, chairman, A. H. Woodward and H. E. Bodine.

NO ACTION UNTIL WILSON RETURNS TO WHITE HOUSE

(BY UNITED PRESS)
Washington, July 13.—President Wilson will return to Washington the latter part of this week, Secretary Tamm stated today. He added that this was a guess, but spoke so confidently that it is believed the guess was based on definite information. The expectation was that nothing positive would be given out until after the President was back in the white house.

THOMAS A. EDISON WILL BE HEAD OF BUREAU

Civilian Advisory Board Soon to be Established in the Department

(Special to the Progress)
West Orange, July 13.—Thomas A. Edison has accepted an invitation from Secretary Daniels to head an advisory board of civilian inventors for a bureau of invention and development to be created in the navy department. His acceptance will go forward at once to Washington, where the new plans awaits word from the man "who can turn dreams into realities."

Mr. Daniel's idea of utilizing the inventive genius of Americans in and out of the military and naval service to meet condition of warfare shown in the conflict on land and sea in Europe is outlined in a letter written last Wednesday, asking Mr. Edison whether, as a patriotic service to his country, he would undertake the task of advising the proposed bureau. The plan is to have several men prominent in special lines of inventive research associated in the work.

ALLIES WILL NOT AGREE TO GERMAN PROPOSAL TO U. S.

Use of German Vessels Under U. S. Flag Not Looked Upon With Favor in Europe

Transfer Would Avoid Article 5 of Declaration of London, Says British Official—Might Interpose no Objection to Bona Fide Purchase.

(BY UNITED PRESS)
London, July 13.—That the allies will not consent to any arrangement between the United States and Germany whereby German merchant vessels may resume sailing under the American flag with the understanding that they carry no contraband of war to England, was the information given to the United Press by a high official today.

Deep interest was shown in official circles by Berlin dispatches reporting that the German foreign office had approved such a proposal, but the unanimous opinion was that both the British and French foreign offices would state flatly to Washington that such a proposal would not be entertained. They pointed out that such a transfer would be void under Article 5 of the Declaration of London. This provides against the transfer of any vessel to a neutral flag.

England might consent to a bona fide purchase of the vessels, provided the vessels be allowed to carry anything that the United States is willing to permit them to carry, but England would not consent to a purchase on any other terms. It is not thought here, however, that Germany would consent to any transfer of her great liners that might result in future use of them for carrying munitions to the Allies.

"BABY" SAYRE BOSSES HIS DISTINGUISHED GRANDDADDY

President's Grandson Rules the Roost at the Summer Capital

(By United Press)
Windsor, Vt., July 13.—For the first time in his life "Baby" Francis Woodrow Sayre realized he had a grandfather. An hour's play with his only grandson each morning and another—or more—in the afternoon was a daily and one of the president's chief vacation delights, when he was here recently.

These daily visits were a new experience for both persons concerned. And "Baby" Sayre was the principle personage in "Harlakenden House," even overshadowing his distinguished parents.

The president also realized for the first time the responsibilities of grandfatherhood. He had seen little of either of his grandchildren, Master Sayre nor Miss McAtee. Although the heir of the Sayres was born in the White House, exigencies of infancy caused his early return to his parent's home at Williamstown, Mass.

"Baby" Sayre demonstrated that he was the real boss at the "Summer capital." He was not too demonstrative about it, but all the President's family felt the rod of his authority. He was not left alone at any time. He also became quite a pal of Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, the President's niece.

Both the president and his grandson are fresh air advocates and the perils of "Harlakenden House" was the favorite retreat of both. Almost every morning, when the weather was not disagreeable, before plunging into his mail, the president and young Master Sayre held a pow wow. Ticking of ribs and chin of the baby was barred by maternal orders, but "cozy" from the president, such as mild jouncing and bouncing was not barred.

Everybody at "Harlakenden House" said that Master Sayre is a model child, as to behavior. No wakeful night hours are black-marked against him.

Mrs. Sayre and the baby plan to remain at Cornish the entire summer and the President hopes to return again to watch his grandson grow and thrive in this bracing climate.

LAST DAY FOR '15 REGISTRATION IS TO BE JULY 22

Most Announcements Made by Register Before That Date For Fall Primaries

Washington Party Expected to Take Action Looking to Selection of the publican Candidates for August Party This Week—in the Evening Register.

Thursday, July 22, will be the last day for registration. On Wednesday and Thursday of next week, July 21 and 22, announcements will be made at the polling places between the hours of 8 a. m. and 3:00 p. m. for the purpose of registering electors and securing party affiliations, and after that time the books will be closed for the primaries.

If there are any who have neglected to register, or who have not following the recommendation of the Washington Party county committee, changed their registration from Progressive to Republican for the purpose of municipal and county elections, there will be notified by the chairman of the action of the committee, and urged to make their decision before the last day in order that they may not be deprived of a vote at the coming primaries.

Up to this time the committee of the Washington party named at a meeting of the county committee last month to select from the field of Republican candidates a ticket which will be recommended to the Progressive voters for their support, has not acted, but will probably meet this week to carry out the instructions of the county committee.

The following calendar of political dates between now and the November primaries may prove of value:

July 21 and 22—Wednesday and Thursday—Registry sessions at all polling places between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 3 p. m. for the purpose of registering electors and recording party affiliations.

July 27—(on or before) County commissioners shall issue primary election proclamation.

August 4.—Last day for candidates to file petitions with secretary of the commonwealth.

August 24.—Secretary of the commonwealth to certify to the county commissioners candidates for the various offices.

August 31.—Last day for candidates to file petitions in office of county commissioners.

Sept. 1 and 2—Wednesday and Thursday—Registry sessions at all the polling places between 10 o'clock a. m. and 3 p. m. for the purpose of registering voters for the general election.

September 2, Friday—Registry sessions to return to county commissioners original and copies of registration.

September 24—Tuesday, Primary election day.

November 2—Tuesday, General election day.

THAW CASE EXPECTED TO GO TO THE JURY TOMORROW
Recommendation That Prisoner Be Released Confidentially Reported

(BY UNITED PRESS)
New York, July 13.—Henry K. Thaw entered on what he and his attorneys considered the last day of his nine year fight for freedom. By night they expect the matter of Thaw's sanity would be in the hands of the jury from which they expect nothing but a recommendation that the slayer of White be liberated as a sane man. The actual liberation of Thaw can only recommend what action should be taken. Thaw was slated. He laughingly said that he has enjoyed most of the night in going over maps and guide books in anticipation of his motor trip to California when he was released.

BRITAINS LAUNCH MOVEMENT TO BUILD 10,000 AEROPLANES

"Win War From the Air" Slogan of Backers of Daring Idea

(BY UNITED PRESS)
London, July 13.—British aeronautical men today launched a movement for the organization of a ministry of aviation to build ten thousand aeroplanes. L. Bin Deabold, lecturer on aeronauts at the Royal Military academy, H. G. Wells, the novelist, and a score of experts are backing the movement. "Win this war from the air," is their slogan. The plan is to send airplanes over Germany and wreck and batter down the works from which Germany is sending her ships and making supplies and wreck the ammunition works. They declare that a few aeroplanes sent over the works each with five bombs, could paralyze Germany by wrecking the plants. "Then thousand aeroplanes could hamstring Germany in a very short time."

REPRESENTATIVE BUTLER TO SEND YOUNG JOHN D. TO JAIL

Offers to Introduce Bill Compelling Him to Answer Questions

(By United Press)
Chicago, July 13.—Representative Frank Buchanan of Illinois today declared that he will gladly introduce a resolution at the next session of congress to compel John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to answer question of Senator Walsh or send him to jail for contempt. He denounced the young oil king and the sending of John Lawton to life imprisonment. "They have violated many statutes," he said. "Other violators are in the penitentiary. Why should we let the money lords go free and do as they please? We need more men like Welch. I am most certainly in favor of bringing John D. Rockefeller, Jr., before the bar of congress, and I will try to force him to answer Walsh's question or send him to jail for contempt."

FRENCH FLIERS BOMBARD GERMAN SUPPLY BASES

Start Fires Which are Believed to Have Destroyed Much Property

(By United Press)
Paris, July 13.—Thirty-four French aeroplanes raided a German strategic position today it was officially announced, and started several fires which are believed to have destroyed large quantities of supplies. The air raid was accomplished without loss of life or air craft in spite of violent bombardment by German anti-aircraft men. 111 bombs were dropped on German supply depots which set them on fire.

Why I Should Become A Member of The Chamber of Commerce

The importance and value of these organizations is best demonstrated by the fact that trade bodies do exist and are being maintained in every live aggressive town in the United States.

To be without an organized body of business men and property owners in a town—

MEANS A HANDICAP FOR THAT TOWN.

It can not be denied that such an organization can do much toward improving business conditions, toward bringing industries to its city, toward beautifying and improving its streets and public parks, and through many other avenues of usefulness.

These things the Chamber of Commerce of Clearfield has done and is doing. New industries have brought to Clearfield merchants not only dollars, but through the activities of the Chamber of Commerce may civic improvements have developed.

Individual members of this body have contributed thousands of dollars to various movements for the improvement of Clearfield and it is only fair that every man should contribute his share if the work is to be continued. You are not asked for a donation—you are asked to identify yourself as a business man or property owner with this body. Surely you owe this to your neighbors who have contributed so generously. You owe it to yourself, and you owe it to the town.

We ask you to join hands with us in this work. A member of the Committee will call on you Wednesday, July 14th, for the purpose of increasing our membership. Join now and become a member of the Clearfield Chamber of Commerce. Be identified with its purposes and boost the town! Help to improve it in a business way—help to beautify it, and to advertise it far and wide. All these things you can help to do by becoming a member of this body.

Many important propositions are under consideration and it is these propositions which have made this campaign necessary. We need new blood. We need more members.

When the Committee calls on you Wednesday, July 14th, we would like you to realize and feel that they are devoting time, money and labor for your benefit, for the benefit of your neighbor, and for the upbuilding of Clearfield.

Join the Chamber of Commerce. Become a Member Now.

"HUMANITY AND COMMON SENSE"

"The German Government will meet Mr. Wilson on the high ground of humanity and common sense. The rest, unless we are gravely mistaken, we may safely leave in the hands of Count Bernstorff and President Wilson."—From the Fatherland's forecast of Germany's reply to the American note.

The German government met Mr. Wilson on the low ground of its own national dishonor to which Kultur has sunk it, and any common sense in Saturday's note purely is discoverable only to those few of God's elect who have been kulturized. Americans may be thankful that their country will not prostitute its heritages of honor and humanity by stooping to deal with Germany on such terms.

A NATION WITHOUT A NAME

In his "Letters of a Retired Admiral to His Son" Capt. A. P. Niblack says the United States is "very poorly equipped for its manifest destiny as a world power," and among the things lacking he mentions no organized diplomatic service, no national air and no distinctive name for Americans as a people.

The first of these is serious enough, and is likely to be permanent although considerable improvement is possible. A trained diplomatic service can not readily be developed under a democratic government and with "rotation in office" accepted as a cardinal principle. The diplomats of Europe learn their business through half a life time of experience, but we fill our important foreign offices with new and untrained men every four years. Inefficiency of this sort is an essential part of the price we pay for the advantages of our republican institutions.

The lack of a national air is both much less serious in itself and by no means so nearly beyond a remedy. We do have a national anthem of a sort in "The Star-Spangled Banner," but as Captain Niblack pointedly observes, "the air is unsingable, the sentiment is 'highfalutin,' and the third verse contains offensive words that do not make for international conciliation." Under the circumstances we naturally make more use of "My Country 'Tis of Thee," but here is met the objection involved in the fact that we have borrowed the air from "God Save the King." Our often employed "Dixie" is a very stirring tune, but the words are farcical. And so it goes.

Much less serious also is the lack involved in the fact that "we are the only people in the world who have not a distinctive name." Of course "United-States-ers" is impossible and "Americans" is a descriptive term which the people of every other country in this hemisphere have a right to. This is an inconvenience which, after so long a time, is past remedy, but it is really a less serious matter than some of us seem inclined to believe. All over the world we are known as "Americans," while the other people with a right to the term rarely employ it except in a very general sense, being proud to be known as Brazilians, Mexicans, etc. Moreover, we are the oldest "Americans," we were the first to become known to the world, and of course we have superior rights in the term.

The fact that our country is called United States is of itself an enduring reminder that we are not originally one and that our nation was evolved from a confederation of previously separate and originally sovereign states. We hardly need to recall that Massachusetts threatened to leave the union as late as 1843-5, and that eleven southern states actually sought to leave the union as late as 1861-5, in order to reflect that with us true nationality is of comparatively recent growth. Our very dual system of government, federal and state, is an imperishable record of our origin and evolution. After the stress and strain which we became a nation, but the mere confederation in which we started may be seen in the form of our governmental institutions as well as in the fact that our country is called the United States and we accept ourselves only as "Americans."

Today's Geographic Study of

"Before the Austro-German advance, south of Warsaw, the powerful Russian fortress Ivangorod interposes itself, just about midway between the great manufacturing metropolises of the Poles and the North Galician frontier. This city is stronghold of the first class, and forms the center of a defensive line guarding the southern approach to the capital city of Russian Poland. Especially, it is important, as it stands upon the junction of railways from Warsaw south, one of which runs southeast to Lublin, and the other southwest to Kieles. The invading German armies are now reported to be pressing toward Lublin, and interest in the near future may center around the redoubtable fortress at Ivangorod." This begins a war primer issued today by the National Geographic Society, dealing with the Russian Przemysl, against which the conquerors of the lost Austrian Przemysl are striving. The statement continues:

"Ivangorod is 148 miles north-west of Przemysl, and more than 60 miles from the Russian border. It is about 60 miles south-east of Warsaw. The city is situated at the confluence of the Wieprz with the Vistula, and its plan of fortification makes use of the Vistula River, which, there, has become of sufficient size as to be navigable for larger boats. Nine permanent works are built along the right bank of the Vistula, and there are three upon the left bank. The country around this town is rolling, in places sharply uneven, and offers advantageous features for defense. Ivangorod, together with Brest-Litovsk, Novo-Georgievsk, and Warsaw, forms the celebrated Polish 'quadrilateral,' the kernel of the Russian scheme for the defense of their frontier land, Russian Poland."

COMMUNICATED

Irvona, Pa., July 10, 1915.

Editor Progress: Having been in Clearfield for some time, was surprised when I came home Monday evening to find quite a discussion as to what the Progressives did and were going to do in Clearfield county, and when told that around their camp fire in Clearfield a few days ago they had decided and advised their followers to return to the Republican fold, there were several questions asked as to the treatment they could expect. Of course their case is a little different to a new convert. They are mostly taken on probation for a short time, the length of time I think depends on the kind of character they have been. We however, as good old Republicans in Irvona, have decided to waive all formality and introductory services and take the Good Book as our guide and it says if the backslider returns, their sins shall be forgiven and remembered no more against them. We would take it for granted that they have laid down their weapons of war and would war against us no more and be willing and ready and glad to have the honor of helping to elect the next president in 1916 who will be W. H. Taft.

And so far as their coming in the race and taking their chances of getting near the plum tree, their chance would be as good as though they had never blackballed. Should anyone intimate that their backsliding had anything to do with their being led to believe there was a nearer path to the plum tree in the Progressive than in the Republican party, we would say bear it like Our Master, who when he was unjustly persecuted only prayed the more for the sinners. You know we always have some fellows in all parties who notice a lot of little things. But come right up front and take your place where you will be welcome boy.

By order of the committee,
Two Good Old Republicans.

MICHIGAN VILLAGE GROWS

504 PER CENT IN 5 YEARS

Hamtramck Spurts from 3559 in 1910 to Over 20,000 in 1915

(Special to the Progress)
Washington, July 13—The census bureau has just completed a special census of the village of Hamtramck, Michigan, at the request and expense of the residents of the village, which shows Hamtramck to have enjoyed the most wonderful growth of any city or town in the United States within the past decade. The village shows an increase of population from 3559 in 1910 to 21,520 in 1915, an increase of 504 per cent. in five years. Hamtramck is a suburb of Detroit, and its remarkable growth is due in large part to the establishment there of large automobile factories and allied industries.

I, E. Beckwith of Harrisburg, Penn., was a victim of disorders of the stomach and intestinal tract. He tried treatment after treatment. Nothing gave him relief.

Then one day he discovered Mayr's Wonderful Remedy—and soon was happy.

Mr. Beckwith wrote to Geo. H. Mayr, the maker of the remedy, and for twenty years the leading druggist of Chicago.

"I believe that Mayr's Wonderful Remedy is the greatest stomach remedy on earth. One dose would convince any one who is troubled with his stomach of its wonderful merits. It removed some of the most awful looking stuff from my stomach. I have taken other remedies, but they never helped me."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. SERVIANS PREPARING FOR STRONG HUNGARIAN ATTACK

(By United Press) Nisch, Serbia, May 3: (By Mail to New York)—Completely reorganized and equipped, Serbia's little army of 300,000 men that has twice defeated the Austrians is today holding itself in readiness for an invasion of Hungary.

Despite the heavy losses of the Serbians, both in their previous conflicts with the Austrians and in the epidemic which is still sweeping the country, their army is now in perhaps better condition than ever before, thanks largely to the financial help of the Allies. The losses in the Serbian ranks have been largely filled by new troops that have been whipped into shape in the provinces of Macedonia which Serbia acquired during the recent Balkan wars.

The fighting strength is still up to 300,000 men, the number with which Serbia began the present war.

Without question, however, the most important transformation in the Serbian army is that in its transportation. Up to the present time in all of its military operations, the Serbian army has been obliged to depend almost exclusively for transportation on ox carts.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD PROVES WONDERFUL RECORD

Handles 10,000,000 Passengers Without Loss of a Single Life

(Special to the Progress) Pittsburgh, July 13.—Records just closed for the year ending June 30 show that in that period the Pennsylvania Railroad system carried approximately 180,000,000 passengers and not one was killed in a train accident.

These records cover the entire system, with its more than 26,000 miles of track, located in 13 states, including the Lines East of Pittsburgh, the Long Island Railroad, the Cumberland Valley Railroad, the New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk Railroad, the Baltimore, Chesapeake and Atlantic Railway, the Maryland, Delaware and Virginia Railway, the Lines West of Pittsburgh, the Vandalia Railroad and the Grand Rapids and Indiana Railway. The Pennsylvania system operates some 113,000 passenger trains every month.

On the Lines East of Pittsburgh and Erie, consisting of the Pennsylvania, the Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, and the West Jersey and Seashore Railroads, not a single one of more than 265,000,000 passengers carried in the past two years and a half has been killed in a train accident. The last train accident in which a passenger was killed occurred at Glen Loch, Pa., in November, 1912.

OAKLAND LOSES TO LUMBER CITY

Lumber City won a second game of baseball last Saturday from Oakland by a score of 12 to 9.

The battery for Lumber City was Zeiger and Young and for Oakland Humphrey.

The Oakland team attributes the loss of the game to an accident which occurred before the game started when their catcher had one of his fingers badly split and was rendered unable to play in the game.

The Discomfort of Dust

The advent of the automobile has made living in a great many cities almost intolerable.

A machine sweeps by your door and leaves in its wake a trail of dust that CHOKES and BLINDS you—that pollutes your flowers, your porch, your outdoor furniture, carpets and rugs with a coating of dirt.

YOUR HEALTH IS MENACED—YOUR PROPERTY DAMAGED!

You cannot enjoy the PLEASURES of your porch because it is not fit to sit on.

Your wife is CONSTANTLY WORKING to keep things CLEAN—the desire of every woman who takes a natural PRIDE in her home.

From the outside your house looks shabby and old. So does your neighborhood—practically the entire community.

How does this affect the elegant visitor or the man looking for a new location?

Isn't it natural to suppose the dust goes away and spreads the news that your town is NOT PROGRESSIVE? And the latter is unfavorably impressed and moves on to the next town where citizens have appreciated the advantages of well-kept roads?

As a community you want to grow—to see your property improve in value—your merchants flourish—your taxes reduced.

You cannot accomplish these things if your roads are NEGLECTED.

And there is LESS REASON today for neglecting your roads than ever before.

Right at this moment The Atlantic Refining Company of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, is under contract with the State to oil or resurface with asphalt hundreds of miles of State roads.

With a big fleet of auto trucks and wagon distributors, they are operating in every county in the State. This makes it possible to take care of your roads IMMEDIATELY, to make prompt deliveries of material, put it on the roads—in fact, handle the whole job in the most ECONOMIC manner for you.

One of the Atlantic road experts is now at work with the County Engineer. He will be glad to meet with you and CO-OPERATE to make your roads what they should be. He can furnish you accurate figures on the cost of any part or all of the work—he will advise you in arousing interest and devising ways and means to finance the project.

Get in touch with this man.

This means YOU!

Write today to The Atlantic Refining Company, Philadelphia or Pittsburgh, and say you want to see the road expert in your vicinity.

Don't put it off—summer is here—the work should be done AT ONCE!
